

Stella

22 MARCH 2015

Wake-up call

If 'live the dream' is the mantra, the reality is a nightmare

Still making waves

The unsinkable power of nautical chic

Read the small print

The thriving world of niche magazines

Our Cheryl
The making of
Ms Fernandez-Versini

FOOD

French country cooking
with Mimi Thorisson

The Sunday Telegraph

Stella loves

This week's must do, see, buy By Sonia Haria

Lake Como is where Milanese fashionistas head for the weekend, and those in need of a bit of luxury stay at the Grand Hotel Tremezzo. This lovingly restored art deco hotel has excellent restaurants, a luxurious spa and secluded gardens. Kick back and enjoy the panoramic views. From £350; grandhoteltremezzo.com

Emma Greenhill's bright and whimsical hand-painted scarves are a cheering addition to any wardrobe. This is our top pick. From £45; emmagreenhill.com

This navy and gold watch by the British brand Unknown looks far more expensive than its £80 price tag. We love the clean geometric design. unknownwatches.com

Florrie & Bill has made its name reupholstering vintage chairs in fabrics such as bute wool. Its latest offering is The Botanical Collection, original 1950s cocktail chairs in pretty retro-style designs by Abigail Borg. £595; florrieandbill.com

WIN THIS

PetsPyjamas.com, the leading pet-travel expert, is offering a Telegraph subscriber and guest a two-night stay at Tresanton hotel in Cornwall, including breakfast, dinner and goodies for your pet. To enter, log on to telegraph.co.uk/subscriber